term hedging has not been previously approved by the Commission as a pricing methodology suitable for consumer participation. A fulsome discussion of the issue(s) presented must, it follows, involve industry stakeholders. Therefore, CNEG claims an interest in these proceedings pursuant to South Dakota Administrative Rule 20:10:01:15.02. In order to adequately protect its interests and the interests of the public, CNEG respectfully requests the Public Utilities Commission grant CNEG formal intervention in order to monitor and participate in this proceeding.

4. Intervention by CNEG will not unduly broaden the issues in these proceedings since the matters which it may choose to address, if any, would pertain to issues raised by other parties or which are inherent in these proceedings.

5. For good cause shown CNEG requests permission to fully participate in this docket, including right to have notice, appear at the taking of testimony, produce and cross-examine witnesses and be heard on the argument of the case.

6. All communications and pleadings in this docket should be directed to:
