

4. Consolidated Edison Development's decision to accept the avoided cost rate if a matter of business exigency and is not an admission that Northwestern' approach to and methodology for calculating avoided cost is correct. Consolidated Edison Development continues to believe that the methodology and inputs that Northwestern used to calculate the avoided cost rate are inappropriate, discriminatory, and inconsistent with PURPA and FERC correctives.

Dated this 30th day of November, 2017.
