Subject: Prevailing Winds LLC Hearing Public Comment

From: Joseph J. Voigt (fmr Bon Homme County Resident)

Date: August 24th, 2016

In response to [REDACTED] rude comments about form letters and not having to live with any impacts of the turbines, I'd like to clarify that my letter was not a form letter, and though I do not live under the turbines or in the state, I consider Bon Homme County has my true home, though it is not my physical address. If I believed that wind turbines had a negative impact on the county, the people, the environment I would be against the project, but the facts are facts, and every creditable form of evidence shows that they do not.

Many of the letters on both sides come from people outside of the area, including the non-profit who wants party-status. It is always easy to pick and choose your evidence when making an argument, especially when you have no self-respect on what your opinion is, and how you come to it. If fu-fu science, and studies financed from the coal, oil and gas industry create your opinions, well its clearly one sided. Again I'd like to state that we need to get to the point, did Prevailing Winds do their due diligence, did they follow the law as required by the local governments and the state government? I believe they did.

Sincerely,

Joseph J. Voigt
