Dear Ron Gogolin:

We are installing two irrigation pivots and an irrigation well on a section of land we own which is in both NorthWestern Energy's and Codington-Clark Electric Co-op's service territories. The north half of the section is served by Codington-Clark and the south half of the section is served by NorthWestern Energy. The irrigation well and one irrigation pivot are in the north half of the section. There is also a pivot in the south half of the section.

In order for the irrigation system to work properly, efficiently and be controlled by one utility we are asking that NorthWestern Energy release the south pivot from your service territory so the irrigation system can be hooked together and served by Codington-Clark.

Sincerely,

Corey & Jennifer Tellinghuisen
