Steve, If you are keeping up with what is being printed in state newspapers on the Trans Canada pipeline you will not take final action until the commission has done more research. I see they plan to decrease the thickness of the pipe wall and increase the pressure plus of all things put in two pipelines. Seems that you need two permits for this. That would be like me applying for one pheasant license but be able to increase it to two so I could have twice as many birds in possession. It should not work that way. From what I read in state law one of the responsibilities of a commissioner is to look out for the residents of SD. Trans-Canada is trying to ram this through way to fast. You have a year to decide, please study this one very, very carefully. Thank you, Ed Goss
