Comments: I am a private individual interested in the proposed rules for wind power that are currently being reviewed. I believe that small wind power has potential for home, farm, and commercial uses. I am concerned that the levels set for Tier One are too low. In checking other states, many are higher and I believe that 100 KW could be a viable limit for that level. How were the limits decided and was there input from small wind producers? I will be watching for notice of any public input meetings. As I continue my research, I will be contacting you with other questions and concerns. Thank you. Bobbi Schurz
