RESPONSE TO INQUIRIES

Knology of the Black Hills, LLC. (the "Company"), by and through its attorney, responds to the South Dakota Public Utilities Commission Staff's inquiries received June 4, 2008, regarding the above referenced docket.

1. Please explain why 2007 actual capital expenditures for Black Hawk and for Whitewood were less than estimated in last year's filing.

RESPONSE:

Although the actual 2007 capital expenditures for Black Hawk and Whitewood were less than estimated in last year's filing, the total actual capital expenditures for the Knology of the Black Hills service area was almost 17% higher than originally estimated. This was a result of the re-evaluation of forecasted capital expenditures that was completed after Knology's acquisition of PrairieWave closed in April, 2007.

2. Did any of the capital improvement targets not get fulfilled during 2007? If yes, identify which target and explain why the target was not met

RESPONSE:

PrairieWave had a strong focus on providing superior telecommunications service to its customers. Since its acquisition of PrairieWave, Knology has continued this focus. It is Knology's opinion that based on the level of service provided by PrairieWave/Knology during 2007; the capital improvements that were made throughout the year enabled the company to meet its target.

Dated this 9th day of June, 2008.

Respectfully submitted,

/s/ filed electronically
