Deb Gregg:

Hi Deb. Did you see my prior email? If not, please see below. Does that accurately summarize the scenarios in our community and similar communities of South Dakota? MidAmerican can spin it how they want, but it is clearly a penalty fee for families that choose renewable/green energy options.

I also looked into those rebates and we will be applying for them. However, they make such restrictions on who qualifies that we likely won't get anything from them. I hope that I am incorrect in that assumption. These type of issues completely contradict any statements that they make about "promoting green energy." They use it to satisfy their government obligations without any sincere effort to encourage renewable and efficient energy options.

Thanks.
