Dear PUC members and staff:

Based on what future generations will have to deal with, the idea that we'd facilitate the extraction of one of the worst offenders among fossil fuels is ill-considered. To act on this notion should be considered irresponsible.

Apart from that, the proposed, privately-funded pipeline is wrongly allowed the use of eminent domain in cutting up ranchers' properties and endangering the area's water and soils through inevitable leaks and spills.

There can be no real question that the long-term interests of South Dakotans are best served by denying TransCanada's permission to proceed.

Thank you for your consideration of this comment.

Don Kelley
