My land is south of the proposed route in Great Bend twp Spink Co.. There's an old farm place & I'm hoping my grandkids will build a home there. You must plan for future generations to remain or come back to the farm. Who would build a home next to a dangerous pipeline? My son and his family live a mile away & he operates on this land with his sons, checking on crops or cattle that may be fall grazing and putting up hay. The well that waters the cattle would be affected due to the large amount of water Summit needs. This water usage could force me to drill a new well to find an available water supply. Currently, no one can hook on to web water, so its not an option for me at this time. Summit keeps saying. "treat us like an oil pipeline" but the oil pipeline on the SW side of Redfield broke in 3 different places within a year of its completion. Redfield, where I live and my grandkids attend school, is within 3 miles of the ethanol plant & the potential kill zone.
