As a South Dakota resident of Rapid City, I would like to see our state do anything possible to reduce the use of pollution-causing fuels. I would also like to see the cost of our power drop in price if possible. Using wind and the sun to generate our electricity seems like a much smarter alternative going into the future. We all know how much wind we get in our area....why not take advantage of it, while doing something responsible for our planet at the same time.

Sincerely, Mike Cales
