Subject: rate increase by Black Hills Power

Auto forwarded by a Rule

To the Public Utilities Commission:

Black Hills Power is a very profitable company and yet they want to pass on costs to their customers. The blizzard damage should have been covered by insurance or by the company, not the customers. Also, the damage to the grid is a temporary loss that has already been fixed. Do customers need to pay for it forever? And raising rates to cover new regulatory costs for coal-fired plants? Really? How progressive and future-thinking is their board? they are living in the past.

I say they should pass on costs to their shareholders, if they must, and I am one of those shareholders!

Get with it, Black Hills Power!

Sincerely,
Robert Lee
