OCTOBER 2013

2013 Plan Where You Plant Program

This fall, employee volunteers have been planting trees throughout our service territories. Twelve tree-planting events were held in Montana and South Dakota as part of the second annual Plan Where You Plant safety campaign.

The tree plantings aim at community beautification and provide an opportunity for NorthWestern to share the importance of planning before you plant to avoid later issues with power lines. The events also serve as a reminder to homeowners and others to call 811 before they dig to avoid hitting underground utility lines.

Overall, more than 300 trees were planted in parks and along trails in communities across our service territory.

Tweet! Tweet! NorthWestern Energy is now on Twitter! We have three handles -- one for each of our state service territories. We tweet about outages, restoration times and during major events. If your power goes out, check Twitter to see what might be happening in your area.

Safety Tips For Changing Seasons

As the leaves change and the air becomes more brisk, we can expect anything from heavy snowfall and severe ice storms to strong winds. You can help avoid needless injury by making sure your whole family is educated on the following basic safety rules.

- Treat all fallen lines as if they are energized and deadly -- stay away and call 9-1-1 immediately. Keep other people and pets away too.
- Keep anything you may be holding or using at least 10-feet away from any power line, whether the line is above or has fallen on the ground. This is especially important to remember when doing fall cleaning around your home and you might be up on ladders or carrying items overhead.
- Ensure your meter is free and clear of all debris.
- If your power goes out, contact NorthWestern Energy immediately to report the outage. We are available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Energy Vampires Haunting Your Wallet?

Do you ever get up at night and find that you don't need to turn on the light? You are guided by twinkling little lights, digital displays of various appliances and electronic devices. Only these devices are like vampires silently sucking away energy even when they are turned "off." This wasted energy, known as standby power, energy vampires, or phantom energy loss, represents a relatively small but growing percentage of an individual home's electricity use.

According to ENERGY STAR®, the average U.S. household spends $100 per year to power devices while they are off (or in standby mode). On a national basis, standby power accounts for more than 100 billion kilowatt hours of annual U.S. electricity consumption and more than $10 billion in annual energy costs.

Some of the biggest energy wasters in most homes are the adapters that come with rechargeable battery-powered cordless phones, cell phones, digital cameras and music players, power tools, and other electronic devices. Most draw power whenever they're plugged into an outlet, regardless of whether the device battery is fully charged—OR EVEN CONNECTED. Other culprits include appliances or electronic equipment with standby capability (such as televisions and computer monitors), a remote control, and/or a digital clock display (such as microwaves, DVD players, and stereo systems).

So what can you do to stop it?

Unplug it! Unplug your phone, camera, portable media player, and/or power tool charger. Unplug your television and attached electronics. Figure out which devices are causing the most phantom energy loss and unplug them when they're not in use. To save yourself some hassle, plug all of your home entertainment system and computer components into a power strip. Just don't forget to flip the switch off when it's not in use. Unplug kitchen appliances with clocks. If you see a clock, then your kitchen device is using power. If possible, keep these appliances unplugged to prevent phantom energy usage. Surge suppressors still protect against power spikes when plugged in, even if switched off. Unfortunately, some devices such as battery backup systems and computer network servers must be left on at all times to ensure proper functioning.

Check the label. When buying an appliance or electronic device, choose the model that uses the least standby power. Choose ENERGY STAR labels because they use less energy for both regular and standby operation. If standby power is not included on a given product label, check the U.S. Department of Energy's online database of manufacturer-supplied information. Being a smart consumer can really make a difference down the road to your bottom line.

Keep it simple. Avoid buying products that include "bells and whistles" you don't need. Some of these extra features might waste energy.

Sign-Up Now for LIEAP

Many people are eligible for assistance to meet their energy needs but may not be receiving that help. NorthWestern Energy customers whose income meets certain guidelines may qualify for help paying energy bills or home weatherization.

The best resource to contact to find out if your household qualifies for assistance is your local Human Resource Development Council (HRDC). They can inform you about current income guidelines and helpful programs that are available such as the Low Income Energy Assistance Program (LIEAP), the Free Weatherization Program and Energy Share. Find your local council, by contacting The National Energy Assistance Referral service (NEAR). It provides individuals with contact information for the local Human Resource Council or agency nearest them. Call 1-(866) 674-6327 or TTY 1-(866)-367-6228.

PLEASE NOTE: As we get into this year's heating season, if you find yourself falling behind on your bill – don't wait until your balance is long overdue, and the payment amount is too large for you to handle. Our Customer Service Representatives will work with you to set up a reasonable payment schedule, so you can avoid having your services disconnected. Call our Customer Contact Center toll free to learn more.

Community Works Partners with American Red Cross

NorthWestern Energy has selected the American Red Cross chapters in Montana, South Dakota and Nebraska as its 2014 Community Works Employee Volunteer Partner.

Each year, we solicit interest from IRS-designated non-profit organizations that operate within our three-state service territory to partner with volunteer opportunities for our employees throughout the year in their communities. The chapters will split a $25,000 corporate donation. Typically employees raise about the same amount in funds throughout the year for our corporate partner through various events, employee tournaments and activities. All funds raised go to serve others in our area.

Now in its seventh year, the Community Works Employee Volunteer Partner sponsorship has raised almost $300,000 for various non-profit organizations. Last year's partner was Habitat for Humanity.

We hope you'll join us in helping others in need this year through one of our activities with the Red Cross or at one of our other volunteer activities this year.

Be Energy Forward

In the market for a new television? The energy efficiency of TVs has improved greatly in the past few years and even so, some models are much more efficient than others. The good news is that the best of the ENERGY STAR® TVs are also the most technologically advanced TVs available, engineered to use less energy, be better for the environment, and save you money.

When shopping, look for the features you want first and then buy the most efficient model you can. It pays to plan ahead, before going to the store visit www.energyefficientelectronics.org or download TopTen USA's list of the most efficient TVs and many other products on the market.

Our Commitment to Our Communities

NorthWestern Energy and our employees donate hundreds of thousands of dollars each year to support the local programs, organizations and services that benefit our communities.

Through our Community Works program, we provide financial assistance to numerous organizations or efforts that provide valuable services to those who live in our service territory. High school association academic and athletic awards, Shakespeare in the Parks performances, economic outlook seminars, and university programs are a few examples of events that have benefitted from our sponsorship program.

We encourage qualified nonprofit organizations that operate within our service territory to apply for donations through our Charitable Giving program. Our local committees review requests year-round and determine funding. You can review a summary of past donations on our website. Organizations must submit an application or written request with proof of tax exemption under Section 501(c)(3) or Section 170 (c)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code to be eligible for consideration.

Applications for donation, program guidelines and reports can all be found by visiting www.northwesternenergy.com and selecting the Community Works link.

In the News

Here are some recent news highlights that were reported in local media. And remember to check us out on your favorite social media networks to stay current with the latest company news!

NorthWestern Energy again is warning residential and business customers about an attempted scam involving collection on allegedly overdue utility bills. Customers in South Dakota and Montana, often small businesses, have been the targets of the most recent scam attempts. The activity appears to be the latest version of a scam that has targeted a number of NorthWestern customers in the past year. Across the nation other utilities have reported similar activity. The phone callers typically seek immediate payment of "overdue" utility bills, often demanding credit-card numbers or other forms of payment that can be converted to cash. In recent incidents, callers have asked for prepaid debit cards issued by retailers, payment via PayPal or other forms of payment that prevents recovery of money by scam victims. NorthWestern reminds customers to be vigilant when it comes to anyone seeking payment information on utility bills, either in person or via the telephone or Internet. The phone callers can be convincing. They might use "spoofing" software that lets them falsely display the name and phone number of the utility company on the recipient's Caller ID.

NorthWestern Energy is looking to fund cost-effective carbon offset projects in its Montana service area. Eligible conservation projects must either reduce carbon emissions or promote the incremental absorption of carbon from the atmosphere. The Request for Proposals (RFP) is issued pursuant to the Montana Public Service Commission Order No. 6943a that authorized construction of the Dave Gates Generating Station. You can find more information about this by visiting our website and looking for the carbon offset plan link in the featured section of our homepage.

In December, NorthWestern submitted its formal request to the Montana Public Service Commission to approve the purchase of 11 hydroelectric generating facilities and related assets from PPL Montana, LLC, a wholly owned subsidiary of PPL Corporation. The filing initiates the formal regulatory process necessary to complete the previously announced $900 million agreement between the two companies. In addition, the company is asking permission to include the hydro assets into the company's rate base and to issue the securities necessary to complete the purchase. "This proposed acquisition, if approved by the Montana Commission, will provide tremendous long-term benefits to our customers," said Bob Rowe, NorthWestern Energy president and CEO. "Other utilities would love to have the chance to diversify their supply portfolios with hydro power. Opportunities like this come around rarely - if ever. We believe strongly that these are the best possible resources to serve our customers - that's what they were originally built to do. If approved by the Commission, they will be permanently dedicated to serve our Montana electric customers, with future prices based on the cost of production, not on prices in the western power market."

Winter Safety Tips

As the winter cold continues to roll through our service territory, we want to remind you of some simple safety tips:

- Ensure your natural gas meter is visible at all times and accessible for maintenance and emergency responders.
- Avoid using a snow blower near a meter to keep from burying the meter with snow. Gently remove the snow or ice from around the meter with your hands or use a broom to brush it away. If ice or excessive snow has encased your meter, contact NorthWestern at (888) 467-2669 for Montana customers or (800) 245-6977 for South Dakota/Nebraska customers.
- Never kick or hit your natural gas meter or its piping with a hammer or other hard object to dislodge snow or ice.
- Keep natural gas vents clear, unobstructed and free of debris. Some direct-vent and high-efficiency appliances have direct, side-wall outdoor vents and air intakes that could become obstructed during heavy snowfall. Other vents may be on the roof.
- If you have seasonal property or are away on vacation, ask someone to check your natural gas meters and vents - especially after a significant storm. A covered meter or vent, in addition to being potentially dangerous, can disrupt service leading to loss of heat to the structure.
- If at any time you smell a strong and persistent odor similar to sulfur or rotten eggs, leave your home immediately and avoid using any electric appliances such as light switches, garage door openers and phones -- including a cell phone. When you are a safe distance away, call NorthWestern energy or 911 to report the concern. Stay clear of the building until someone from the utility or a first responder tells you it's safe to return.
- Always watch for downed or sagging power lines - especially after heavy snow or wind. Treat all downed lines as if they are energized - stay away and call NorthWestern Energy right away.
- Be prepared for power outages by having working flashlights in easy to reach locations.

SEPTEMBER 2014

Trees Together

It's been said that the best time to plant a tree is yesterday – and the second best time is today. When we plant a tree, we put down roots that help communities become more sustainable. We're also leaving a legacy for future generations, while creating healthy and beautiful communities that make a difference now.

Trees provide many benefits, including cleaning the air; producing food; providing oxygen; cooling homes, streets and cities; protecting us from harsh winter weather; increasing property values; and reducing heating and cooling costs.

Before you plant, however, get the facts. Here are some quick tips you should know before planting a tree. For more help in planning where you plant, download our tree planting guide from our website.

- Pick a tree that's appropriate for your climate and space.
- Think about the life of the tree and don't plant near power lines. Know where overhead power lines are and plant at least 15 to 20 feet away. Trees that grow taller than 40 feet should be planted more than 35 feet away.
- Call 811 to check for underground utility lines at least two working days before you dig. Once you know where underground natural gas lines are, plant at least 25 feet away.

My Energy

NorthWestern Energy makes it easy to manage your energy account from our website. You can track your energy use, sign up for paperless billing, register for EZ Pay, make a one-time payment and report a power outage. You can even start, stop or transfer service if needed.

To register your energy account:

1. Go to NorthWesternEnergy.com.
2. At the top right of the page, click register.
3. Click on Register for My Energy Account under the sign-in form.
4. Fill out the registration form and submit. You will need your account number and one piece of personal identification information, such as your date of birth or social security number.
5. Once you have chosen your username and password, you will be able to log in to your account whenever you want from wherever you are!

Still have questions?

Call us in Montana at 888-467-2669. Call us in South Dakota or Nebraska at 800-245-6977. Customer service is available Monday – Friday, from 7 a.m. – 6 p.m. (24/7 emergency service available).

Our contact centers field hundreds of calls from customers every day. However, there are instances when we experience longer than usual wait times – especially during major power outages. Instead of waiting on hold, you can give us the best phone number on which we can contact you and a customer service representative will call you back. You don't lose your place in line, and you don't have to wait on the phone to talk to a representative either, because we know your time is valuable!

Come to a Tree Planting Event Near You!

NorthWestern Energy has selected 12 communities to receive $5,000 each for trees to be planted with the help of our employees. We'll have experts on hand to share tree-planting tips and safety information. To date, we've invested more than $250,000 in trees throughout our communities. This year's tree planting schedule is below:

Stay Clear – Stay Safe

Making sure you stay clear of overhead power lines is vital to your safety and the safety of others.

At work, always look up before moving irrigation pipe or ladders or operating a crane, or other equipment that may come in contact with overhead power lines.

At home, be sure all swing sets, trampolines and trees are nowhere near an overhead power line. Stay a safe distance of 10 feet or more away from any overhead power lines. This 10-foot clearance not only applies to you, but also to anything you may be carrying or tools you may be working with.

For higher voltages, keep a wider distance and plan the location of heavy equipment, such as cranes, in consultation with NorthWestern Energy. Use spotters when operating lift trucks and power or farm equipment to avoid contact with overhead lines. The spotter should be positioned near the heavy equipment maintaining contact with the operator the entire time it is being operated near high-voltage lines. The spotter's only duties should be observing the work and communicating with the operator to ensure the equipment stays at least 10 feet away from a power line.

Safety begins with being alert!

Community Works Invests in Bright Futures

NorthWestern Energy is funding $100,000 in annual scholarships for students attending 11 universities, colleges and trade schools in Montana, Nebraska and South Dakota beginning with the fall term.

The NorthWestern Energy Community Works Scholarship is available to students from our area pursuing fields of study in engineering, computer technology, business, and utility-related trade programs.

The institutions and programs were selected based upon a review of the colleges, universities and technical schools from which NorthWestern Energy has most frequently hired new employees over the past two years; a good faith outreach efforts to support our Affirmative Action plan in terms of sourcing qualified female and minority candidates; feedback from key client managers who hire frequently; our current and potential future skill needs; and a proximity of the schools to our service territory. Participating Institutions are responsible for the selection of students.

To see the list of participating colleges, visit the Community Works section of our Community Works Report, available for download at NorthWesternEnergy.com.
