SD regulator

Got word late yesterday that the place we sign on paper work ks not correct. That signing before the notary was on the wrong line, sending it back in snail mail to north bend and I will sign on the lower slot .

Seems like better set of directions may have Prevented the three of us from that error and wasted time. Reason why it happened? we all drink the same Platte River water...

Delay number 12 on a basic simple set of tasks.

Frustrated is what this all amounts to in my resounding ponder.

I was born and raised on my dad's dairy farm in West Point. He also did work for Midwest Breeders so I was in the North Bend area a time or two. I will pass this information on to Cody Chambliss the grain Warehouse manager for approval. Let me know if you have any other questions on this.
Thanks

Attached is a form "current financial information". On the application, page 3 #14 "financial condition at date of application", was left incomplete. Please print and complete the attached form then sign in front of a notary. You may scan me a copy then send the original to our office. The reason we need these figures on the application is because of the perjury statement you are signing.

If you could scan us a copy of the signed bond then send the original in the mail. Once we have the above information we should have what is required to issue the license. Sorry for any confusion

Thank you, will look for the original in the mail. Once we have the signed bond that should be the last piece of information we require at this point.

Paul

Being in a rural office when the ink runs out it takes a day to resupply if you run out as we did on the printer yesterday sheesh

Attached is the filled in forms and an updated financial statement for your files

Any questions feel free to call and chat about this

We are putting the originals doc in the mails today to your offices.

One signature is needed it was sent to that person and I will contact him on getting that done and sent.

THis is about as bad as giving birth, lots of delays in time.
