Mr Cody Chambliss with the SD PUC can you please explain why farmers are still unpaid from Indigo Ag, despite Commission Nelson directing you to protect farmers? Millions of dollars of unpaid grain from SD farmers. Please explain why you are not protecting our farmers like Kristi L. Noem would advise you to if she was aware!

How can you let farmers go unpaid for this long without stepping in?

Please share and help get South Dakota farmers paid. Thank you

Perhaps KELOLAND News Agweek ABC News Brian Allen KSFY should investigate why SD farmers are owed money.

Subject: RE: Unpaid grain

Jeremy,

Thank you for your concern. I have forwarded this to PUC staff each time you have reached out. I cannot opine on the issue, because it could ultimately be a docket before the Commission. Therefore, all communications should be sent to PUC grain staff or Executive Director Patricia Van Gerpen.

It would seem that they are more interested in going after small businesses that don't owe a single farmer a penny than to go after huge ag corporations that have a fleet of lawyers. Seems we have different standards of conduct depending upon how many politicians you can grease. Our great state is widely known as one of the most corrupt in the nation for a reason.

I've spoken with current and former clients of yours, as well as former coworkers/managers. Not many have had bad things to say about you, and I don't know if that's because they like you as a person or because you've helped understand things better or heck maybe sold them some Jerusalem artichoke hype, idk.

What I do know is that you and Hunter Hanson have made it VASTLY more difficult for ag advisor services to operate in the Dakotas. Granted, some of the regulations have caused some bad actors to not attempt to do business, but it has also caused well-to-do companies and individuals to see the barriers of entry, and decide not to approach SD at all.

THAT puts the Dakota farmer at a disadvantage because they don't have equal access to the same entities

THAT puts the Dakota farmer at a disadvantage because they don't have equal access to the same entities farmers in other states do. That is where my problem lies, Jeremy. As well as some of my farmers being 'auto' enrolled into marketing campaigns they've never signed up for?

What happened to the post about the SD grain trading fines?

The attorney general made me take down the post about Cody Chambliss not getting farmers paid from Indigo Ag. The other posts that talk about BP doing over 5 million in business despite a bond for 20 million are still out there.

Jeremy Frost why do you feel the need to repeatedly tag cody. Your problem is with the state. And I'm pretty sure personal attacks will get you nowhere.

[A \[REDACTED\] L \[REDACTED\]](#) this falls back to honesty and integrity. Mr. Frost has both and obviously Mr Frost keeps attacking some lo er that stole money from South Dakota farmers and Mr frost sadly introduced this lo er to his personal contacts and burned all of them out of millions of dollars. Sounds like an apology and cash need to happen.

I do not know this person called lo er. So I can only speak on behalf of a loyal friend.

E [REDACTED] B [REDACTED] cody didn't do anything with grain contracts. He's an investigator for South Dakota PUC. So it has nothing to do with it. And PUC actually had nothing to do with contract disputes so again the attack is very pointless. Plus when the state is investigating your business its not real smart to be calling out state employees cause the state doesn't take that well.

A [REDACTED] L [REDACTED] my problem is someone hasn't done anything to get farmers paid. What department is responsible for making sure farmers are paid for grain in a timely manner?
