Commissioners:

It is my understanding that the state legislature granted to the counties the power to set up zoning rules pertaining to their individual counties, in other words, local control.

Any company wishing to conduct business in that county is obliged to follow the local zoning rules. Navigator should be no exception as it intends to build their CO2 sequestration pipeline in Lincoln and Minnehaha counties. The county has the say, by state statute, what they deem is best for their locality.

Please do not allow this company to disregard the locally established setback distances for safety measures to protect their own residents and tax payers.

I am a nonresident property owner in Minnehaha County. My land parcel in Red Rock Township will be adversely affected due to the pipeline potentially being built across the road. If this pipeline is built, we will forever lose our chance to use our valuable housing eligibility, all so a big out-of-state company can take a handsome profit.

Please do the right thing and deny Navigator's request to disregard local setback regulations.
