The wing, tailfeathers and head feathers of a harvested sharp-tailed grouse are put in an envelope and submitted to the NDG&F. In total, the agency handles thousands of wings each year from the state's three major upland game species. Simonson Photo.

Hunter surveys, wing submissions provide deep look at upland birds

By NICK SIMONSON

While the upland bird hunting seasons have ended in North Dakota, the work for the staff of the state's Game and Fish Department (NDG&F) is just getting underway in an effort to tally hunter hours in the field, their relative success and also the data from submitted samples to help gain the information needed through surveys and wings submitted by sportsmen. Through those hunter surveys and sample envelopes, biologists and staff can determine sportsman effort, estimated total harvest of pheasants, grouse and partridge and insight into the makeup of those populations in the most recently completed year. According to NDG&F Upland Game Management Supervisor Jesse Kolar, both resources provide more than just the numbers, but insight into trends, habitat initiatives and management practices of the agency.

SURVEY SAYS

Each winter the NDG&F sends out surveys to select hunters throughout the state to determine their participation in and success from upland hunting endeavors for pheasants, sharp-tailed grouse and Hungarian partridge. From that, agents get a bootstrap sampling of how many birds of each species were taken in the previous fall and gauge hunter efforts in the field.

"We try to get a feedback on one, how satisfied people are with their seasons, but also on how many total pheasants, partridge, [and] grouse are being shot each season, that information helps not only with our legal mandate to report those things in order to have hunting seasons, but it also helps us to evaluate how the trends are correlating with what we're seeing on our surveys and how hunters are experiencing numbers based on what our surveys are showing," Kolar explains.

WINGING IT

At the outset of the fall upland hunting season, sportsmen can request wing envelopes through the NDG&F and its offices around the state to catalog samples of wings, legs and various feathers of upland species to help biologists determine the estimated makeup of pheasant, grouse and partridge populations in the areas they hunt. By receiving the wings, legs and certain head feathers, biologists can determine the age structure of pheasants on the landscape, and can also determine the same for grouse and partridge along with the gender makeup of the populations during the season. On the average the department receives 2,000 to 4,000 pheasant wing samples, around 1,000 from sharp-tailed grouse and a few hundred partridge submissions each year, though those numbers have been off since the drought of 2017.

"That's an important sample we get and it has been a sample that we've been low on in the last few years, obviously with low numbers harvest has been lower, so we haven't been getting as many wings sent in from hunters as we normally did," Kolar states of those recent submission trends. "It doesn't take too long to go through each envelope and once we get rolling...we can usually go through 50 to 100 every hour, but we don't set up and do that every day, it's usually free afternoons here and there and it takes us a few months," he concludes.

DEEP DIVE

results, the data obtained from hunter surveys and wing submissions help the NDG&F in conjunction with other data to determine possible habitat efforts in certain areas and assist with management of state lands for upland game birds. In places where numbers are off, private land initiative efforts can be ramped up to improve areas of habitat to help sustain and rebuild pheasant and grouse populations. In the instances of getting a better understanding of the science and biology of upland game management, the average age can help determine hatch times and practices relating to improving survival.

"Recently we did an evaluation of all the wings that we've had since the 1950s and we were looking at nearly 200,000 total pheasant wings and 70,000 total sharp-tailed wings, a lot of wings that we've aged and sexed over the years," Kolar related as part of a study to determine the prime hatching dates for sharp-tailed grouse, and it was discovered that about 30 percent of the young birds were vulnerable to haying practices into August, "that changed how we're managing our wildlife management areas; we've now shifted our haying date from mid-July to early August, so things like that are impacted directly from these numbers," he concluded.

From the basics of hunter efforts and harvest composition to deeper biological concerns and management improvements, the two-tiered set of winter tools at the department's disposal go beyond days afield and the feathers on a wing. As a result of hunter participation in these efforts, the agency is better able to understand the intricate relation of habitat, birds, hunters and so much more on the prairie of North Dakota from season to season.

Beulah PD gets vaccinated

By JERIC TAFOYA

Beulah Police Chief Frank Senn reported at the Jan. 4 city council meeting that the police department has recently participated in the COVID-19 vaccinations.

"Our department did participate in the COVID-19 vaccination. I had three of the five sworn officers with no side effects in round one," Senn said. "We'll take a second shot on the 26th of January. So that'll be the last of the COVID vaccinations in the department," Senn added.

He also spoke of his participation with the North Dakota Chiefs Association. He is one of the executive secretaries for the association that represents all 57 municipal police agencies in the state.

He said, "Through the North Dakota Chiefs Association, we were intending to sign up for Binax. The association would pay for the administrative costs for Binax testing. In talking with the North Dakota League of Cities (NDLC), it sounds like they are going to take that on. That way we can encompass all cities to subscribe to the Binax."

He added, "Binax is basically rapid COVID testing. So it'd be a 15-minute test. So on a city level, we'll have the ability to do a rapid test of employees should we want to or if they need to. And then I would make available staff with my department to be certified or qualified to do the testing."

Cenex prepares for 2021 renovations

By DANIEL ARENS

As spring draws nearer, so do plans for Hazen Cenex to spruce up its looks and services going forward.

Paul Doll, Hazen Cenex general manager, said there will be several elements to the 2021 project. One of the most notable is the addition of a new gas island, which will include two new pump stations, accommodating four additional vehicles (one on each side of each station).

Doll and Sam Lauer from Westmor Industries, the general contractor for the project, spoke with the Hazen City Commission during a meeting Jan. 4 about these plans. They hoped to get the city's blessing for them to begin making official plans for the remodel.

Lauer provided some preliminary information and drawings for the project to the city commissioners. One thing he mentioned was doing some work with the sidewalks while they are already in the area to improve the slopes on the curbs to make them more ADA accessible.

Other elements of the remodel include the installation of new bulk tanks (with the current ones being used until the new ones are operational, minimizing the amount of time needed to do the switch), a revamped Cenex sign that can more clearly be seen above the trees beside the highway and some interior renovations.

Hazen City Auditor Monte Erhardt mentioned looking into a portion of the property on the west side of Cenex, along 4th Ave. NE. He thought this property, formerly Hazen City property, had never formally been deeded or leased to Cenex, and now it would be best to address that.

There was a lot of discussion about this during the meeting, with questions on whether to lease or purchase the property, and how purchasing city property would require public notice of sale. However, further investigation after the meeting revealed there was in fact a deed from May 1991 that had officially ceded the property in question from the City to Cenex.

Doll said he would like to know whether the city was favorable to moving forward with the project. Commissioner Nancy Wolf, who presided at the Hazen City Commission President Jerry Obenauer, said she wanted the permit to be submitted before the commission officially gave its blessing. Stern added he wanted the situation with the property in question resolved before approval also.

Wolf, Stern and the other commissioners expressed support for the idea of doing the project, but wanted to ensure these issues were clarified.

Lauer said he understood the commission's request, and agreed to prepare the permit for an upcoming city meeting while the property issue was further looked into.

Commissioner Dan Pillar moved to publish for sale the relevant tract of land, with Stern seconding. Although the motion passed unanimously, the discovery

Kidnapped child recovered

By JERICK TAFOYA

Thanks to the assistance and coordination of several law enforcement organizations, an Oregon fugitive has been taken into custody.

On Jan. 8, the Beulah Police Department received a tip that a fugitive from Oregon was hiding in the Beulah area while trying to make her way to Canada.

Beulah Chief of Police Frank Senn said, "We received some information through our investigation that we had a gal that was wanted out of Oregon for kidnapping her seven-year-old daughter. So we were able to obtain and execute a search warrant. The warrant was served with the Mercer County Sheriff's Department, the U.S. Marshals Service and the Beulah Police Department onto this residence in the city of Beulah where we safely were able to recover the child and arrest the person who had kidnapped her."

After contacting the U.S. Marshals Service and requesting assistance from the Mercer County Sheriff's Office, the Beulah Police Department executed a search warrant on the residence.

Senn said, "It's a warrant out of another state – so there's a warrant to apprehend her. So we won't file an affidavit because there will be no state charges at this stage. We'll wait for extradition for Oregon to come and get that gal and take her back to Pendleton, Ore."

Beulah Police released this statement:

"We are pleased to announce that the child has been safely returned to her family and the fugitive was taken into custody. We want to give a special thank you to the citizens of our community for assisting us in the investigation. It's community policing at its best."

Senn said, "We are so fortunate that our community is responsive to law enforcement – as far as calling in things that are not right or if it seems odd. We couldn't do an effective job without the members of our community and without citizens stepping forward and pointing out things that are not normal or not adding up."

He also said that part of policing a community is trusting the community.

"The thing I look at here in North Dakota – now I'm partial – we have excellent coordination among state, federal, tribal and local law enforcement to get our citizens served the best we can," Senn said.

"And this I think is a true depiction of those relationships – to be able to get the U.S. Marshals Service to come to Beulah and our relationship with the Mercer County Sheriff's Department so that we can affect the best outcome possible," Senn added.

to squelch their own biases and look at all sides of an issue comprehensively, are the least likely to be believed. Their reporting likely won't jive with the entrenched views of the right and the left. And people on the right and the left will gravitate towards those voices who tell them what their itching ears want them to hear.

In honesty, writing these columns this week is hard for me. I know that when I try to address national issues, anything I say in an editorial (or report on in my articles, for that matter) will be taken with a grain of salt by anyone whose viewpoint doesn't match what is being reported.

But I also want to make clear what my position is. As editor of this newspaper, I want to report on the news that directly impacts and matters to Hazen and Mercer County residents. I want to tell their stories.

I cannot completely avoid bias in my own reporting or law. No one can. But I will strive to balance that, to admit it and hold it in check.

Hopefully, enough people know me to know my sincerity in this. That's the valuable thing about local, community journalism. It's easier to note if someone is disingenuous, if they're not really engaged in their communities, if they're pursuing their own agenda. For those who are real community journalists, they can develop relationships with the people they're living around, the people whose stories they're telling. And those relationships can lead to trust, even when there might also be disagreement.

It's never been harder to be a journalist than it is in today's world. But it's also never been more important, or more rewarding. My hope is that my readers read that, and know that, at least, is true.

Stanton News

By JESSE KRIEGER

Texas was a popular place to visit over Christmas. Cassandra Dumond accompanied her sister Danette to Plano where they returned Danette's granddaughter, Brynlee, to her dad Sam. Also along for the ride was Cassandra's daughter, Aspen. While there, they took a little trip about an hour's drive to Flint, where Karl and Morie Sailer, Stanton friends of theirs live, and surprised them with a visit.

Trudy Platz also got in on the fun as she was staying at Karl and Morie's (her daughter and son-in-law) during that time and enjoying Christmas with her grandsons Kirk and Kyle and his wife Amanda. While she loved the time with her grown-up family members, it was the great-grandchildren, Wade and his sister Blakely who are 3 and 1, that she really had a ball with. Wade is getting to be a big talker, which might run in Trudy's family.

David Borner has been trying to do some ice fishing as of late. He's always ready as he keeps his portable icehouse on the back of his pickup. He said depending on where you go, you have to be extremely careful this year as the ice varies in thickness and smoothness. Various reports from fishermen around the area indicate that this is not a typical year for fishing through the ice because of the weather, and a few guys have lost some four-wheelers where the ice was too thin.

The need for a nice frame for a print that has been sitting in the dining room for too long prompted a visit to Gordon Schnable, who still has a nice inventory of hand-crafted wooden frames that he made a few years back. The frames have nice detailing and can be used for any type of picture or print, but western or Native American themes look pretty sharp in them. And if you don't have anything to put in one, Gordon still has a few prints of some of his paintings that depict events of the Lewis and Clark expedition and local Native American life. If you're looking to update or add something new to your walls, or get someone a really nice gift, give him a call.

Kemp and Lennis (Folk) Pearson stopped in Stanton last weekend to visit. They were here from Pierre, SD, to visit with family and friends. These two are originals from the Deapolis and Ft. Clark area and everyone enjoyed seeing them again.

A yellow-shafted Northern Flicker was spotted at a local bird feeder. Usually these birds migrate west for the winter, but are probably here enjoying the nice winter.

Some serious seed-ordering got done last week, as the time is coming close for starting some flowers and vegetables that take a bit longer to grow out, such as petunias and peppers. I'm challenging myself this year with expanding the variety and number of plants that I start. And if you don't order some of the varieties early enough, you may not get them. Too bad you can't order some rain from those catalogs, because we're going to need some out north come gardening time.

What does a coup look like?

To its horror, America witnessed on January 6, 2021, an insurrection. Millions watched, in real time.

Domestic terrorists laid siege to the U.S. Capitol building in an effort to disrupt Congress from performing its constitutional duty to count and certify the Electoral College results. The attempted coup by supporters of President Trump failed, of course, for after a delay of several hours, Congress was able to resume its business in the damaged chambers of the U.S. House of Representatives, and it duly certified the election of Joe Biden, who will assume the presidency on January 20.

Our constitutional democracy, and our reputation abroad as a beacon of liberty — a shining city on a hill that has stood as a model for all nations aspiring to be democratic — took a severe beating. America was knocked to the canvass, shaken by the deadly riots and more acutely aware than ever of the fragility of our democracy.

This was only the second attack on the U.S. Capitol building. The first occurred in the War of 1812, but that was the work of the invading British Army. This attack was instigated by the president of the United States, whose seditious rhetoric inspired his followers to lay siege to the temple of our democracy.

At the rally, which he organized, and to which he invited his supporters from across the nation — "it's going to be wild" — President Trump encouraged the crowd to march on the Capitol. The election had been stolen, he said again, without any evidence, and declared, they have to "fight like Hell." He told his throng that they needed to march to the Capitol, and that he would walk with them, although he did not. He told them to be strong and to show strength, and to take back their country, which was being stolen from them. Trump lit the match.

The crime of sedition, as old as civilization itself, and embedded in U.S. law from the start, is staggering, for it involves speech that incites revolt or acts of violence against governmental authority. All nations have a right to protect themselves, not only from foreign enemies, but from domestic individuals and organizations that would harm and undercut governing bodies, including Congress.

But sedition is difficult to prove, and rightly so, since the First Amendment provides broad protection, in the name of critically important democratic values such as freedom of speech and press. The question of whether potentially seditious speech is protected, the Supreme Court said in 1969, in Brandenburg v. Ohio, is whether it is advocacy "directed to inciting or producing imminent lawless action and is likely to incite or produce such action."

Whether President Trump's speech constitutes sedition will be debated. What happened at the Capitol building was the work of a violent, unlawful mob, committed to obstructing a fundamental constitutional duty. Did Trump inspire them to these ends? This is a serious question that all citizens should address.

But even if President Trump did engage in sedition, it is highly unlikely that he would be prosecuted for it. The U.S. Department of Justice currently labors under an indefensible "policy," based on a memorandum written by the Office of Legal Counsel in 1973, which declares that the president may not be prosecuted. Recall Robert Mueller's frustration in his observation that Trump had, at different times, engaged in roughly 10 acts of obstruction of justice, crimes that would typically lead to prison terms for ordinary Americans, but not for the president, given the policy of the Justice Department.

The new Congress, under Democratic control, must write a statute that overrules the conclusion in the OLC memo and provide that the president of the United States, like all citizens, is subject to criminal laws, and may be held accountable for violations. Such a statute would meet the expectations of the framers of the Constitution, who were determined to subject the nation's chief executive to the rule of law.

The deep concerns surrounding the insurrection, and belief that it was incited by President Trump, has prompted a growing number of both Democratic and Republican officials to call for President Trump's resignation and, indeed, his removal from office, either through impeachment or invocation of the 25th Amendment. Both remedies face stiff challenges, but pressure to invoke one or the other is likely to increase in the hours and days ahead. We will explore these measures next week.

Adler is president of The Alturas Institute, created to advance American Democracy through promotion of the Constitution, civic education, equal protection and gender equality. Send questions about the Constitution to this newspaper and he will attempt to answer them in subsequent columns.

LEMMON COWGIRLS BASKETBALL

Lemmon vs. New England

Lemmon's two seniors combined for 56 points in a 78-48 win at New England on December 22.

Tally Katus rang up 31 points and Tayte Kohn dropped in 25 in the Cowgirls win.

Katus was 12-16 from the field and 7-7 from the free throw line. Kohn was 10-15 from the field and was perfect on 2 free throw attempts.

"Tally and Tayte scored a lot of points, but the girls were moving the ball well and it didn't really matter who scored," said Lemmon coach Heather Katus.

The Cowgirls withstood an early full-court press by the Tigers. Coach Katus used senior Tayte Kohn along with freshmen Allie Kohn and Mikailah Byre to handle the full-court pressure.

"Allie especially had a really good game," said Coach Katus. "She handled the ball well and stayed out of the corners."

Offensively, Tally Katus and Sonni Maher were the beneficiaries of the press breaker. Katus had 8 first quarter points and Maher added 6 in the first period.

Lemmon led 35-22 at halftime, then scored 43 second half points to pull away for a 30-point win.

"The girls played together and had fun," said Coach Katus. "We needed a fun game."

"The best thing was the smiles on their faces," Coach Katus concluded.

In addition to her game-high 31 points, Tally Katus snared 18 rebounds and 3 steals.

Allie Kohn had 6 rebounds and 6 assists. Tayte Kohn dished out 7 assists in to her 25 points.

Lemmon's JV team won their fourth straight game to open the season, defeating New England JV 64-26.

Allie Kohn had 13 points. Mikailah Byre scored 11, and Jaedyn Byre and Emily Faughn added 9 point each in the JV game.

Kelly Lynch had 10 rebounds in the JV contest. Shannon Gebhart and Torce Maher pulled down 6 rebounds apiece. Allie Kohn had 7 steals in the JV game.

Lemmon vs. Hettinger/Scranton

By all accounts, 2020 hasn't been anyone's favorite year. The Lemmon Cowgirls, however, waved goodbye to 2020 with a huge 45-37 upset win over Hettinger/Scranton on December 29.

The Nighthawks came in to the game with a 4-1 record. Their only loss was by 6 points to undefeated Beulah.

"As of now, it is our biggest win of the season!" exclaimed Lemmon coach Heather Katus.

The game was tied 10-10 early in the second quarter, when Lemmon went on a 16-0 run to close out the first half. The Cowgirls spurt was sparked by 3 three-pointers, two by Allie Kohn and one by Tayte Kohn.

"Allie's three pointers were amazing—a freshman shooting with no fear," said Coach Katus, "and Tayte definitely had the hot hand all night."

Lemmon maintained their lead through the third quarter, but Hettinger/Scranton crept back into the game in the fourth period. Bailee Pierce had 3 three-pointers and 13 fourth quarter points to bring the Nighthawks within 4 points, 40-36, with 58 seconds to play.

Tayte Kohn responded by hitting both ends of a one-and-one to give Lemmon some breathing room with a 42-36 lead. Then the Cowgirls handled the Nighthawks' full-court pressure and ran time off the clock on each possession to preserve the victory.

"We called time out and told the girls they didn't have to shoot," said Coach Katus. "They listened and ran their offense and did what they need to do."

Katus credited her tall girls for containing Hettinger/Scranton's leading scorer, 6'0 post Sam Oase. Katus rotated Tally Katus, Sonni Maher, Kelly Lynch and Macy Schiley to defend Oase and collectively held her to 6 points.

"We kept one in front and one behind her," said Coach Katus.

The Cowgirls won their second straight and advance to 4-2, with one of their biggest wins in recent memory.

"I was so proud of them," said Coach Katus. "They brought tears to my eyes."

Tayte Kohn led Lemmon with 23 points and 4 assists. Kohn hit 5 three-pointers and was 5-6 from the free throw line.

Tally Katus had 9 points and 11 rebounds. Allie Kohn and Lynch had 6 rebounds each. Allie Kohn had 6 assists as well.

Lemmon won the JV game by a 52-25 margin. Mikailah Byre had 16 points and 5 steals. Jaedyn Byre scored 12, and Kelly Lynch added 11 points in the JV game.

Sydney Maher had 3 steals and Sonni Maher blocked 2 shots in the JV game. Macy Schiley and Jaedyn Byre had 4 rebounds apiece.

The Lemmon junior varsity has a perfect 5-0 record.

The second game of the day saw the Los Angeles Rams head to Seattle and beat the Seahawks 30-20. With both of these teams being in the same division, they are well acquainted with each other by this point. The Rams weren't able to get anything going in the passing game, but leaned on a running game (43 carries, 164 yards) and their defense to shut down Russell Wilson and the Seahawks (Wilson went 11/27 for 174 yards, two touchdowns and a pick-six, and was also sacked five times).

The final game on Saturday was the Tampa Bay Buccaneers against the Washington Football Team. Tom Brady threw for 381 yards and two touchdowns, but it was the quarterback for Washington who stole the show. Former Viking Taylor Heinicke the Pittsburgh Steelers. Pittsburgh were heavy favorites, but Baker Mayfield put the Browns on his back, completing 21 of 34 passes for 263 yards and three touchdowns in a 48-37 win. Steelers' QB Ben Roethlisberger threw for over 500 yards and had four touchdowns, but also threw four interceptions in a disappointing loss for a team that was undefeated through their first 11 games of the season.

Legislative CORNER

Senator Don Schaible

dgschaible@nd.gov

Happy New Year's to everyone. I sure hope we have a better year than last year. The 67th legislative session started this week, with many changes to get used to. Less access to the chamber, to committee rooms and to legislators will be the new normal for this year. All new rooms have been assigned to accommodate social distance during committee hearings, with a mask mandate required when social distance is not possible. Masks will also be required from ½ hour before floor session to ½ hour after session. Half of the legislators will be assigned to other areas of the building when the chamber is not in session to also provide greater separation.

The rules also recommend that legislators and legislative branch employees complete a daily health self-assessment before going to the Capitol. Individuals entering the building will be required to submit to a temperature screening, and anyone with a reading of 100.4 degrees or greater or who is experiencing virus symptoms may be turned away. Anyone who feels that it is better to participate virtually will be able to do that with the new technology changes that were implemented with CARES Act dollars allocated to the state to deal with COVID-19 issues. Legislators will now be able to participate and vote to any committee hearing and floor session virtually if that is necessary.

The location of committee rooms will be different for the 2021 session. Smaller rooms will not be used, and four new rooms have been developed in the Judicial Wing on the east side of the Capitol. One room will be on the second floor of the J-Wing, and three new rooms will be located on the third floor. The House Appropriations Committee will meet in the spacious Brynhild Haugland Room, and Senate Appropriations will use the Roughrider Room, which the House committee will have vacated. All committee hearings will be live streamed via the internet, and recordings of the meetings will be archived on the legislative website.

There are several ways for patrons to leave messages for legislators. The first option is to call the incoming toll-free number 1-888-NDLEGIS (1-888-635-3447). In Bismarck, the number is 328-3373. For hearing-impaired individuals, the TTY toll-free number is 1-800-366-6888 to reach a relay operator. Each of these numbers will reach the legislative telephone center. The telephone attendant will be able to give the latest information concerning bills and resolutions. If the caller wishes to directly contact the caller's legislator, a message will be delivered to the legislator. There is always the option to send us an email with your concerns and suggestions.

The best option to stay current with bills and calendar is to visit the legislative branch website: www.legis.nd.gov. Website users will find bill status information and have an opportunity to leave a general message for legislators or a viewpoint on legislation. A legislative bill tracking system and legislative branch video are available on the website. The bill tracking system will allow users to follow individual bills; the legislative branch video will allow users to watch live video of committee hearings and floor sessions as well as archived and indexed committee meetings and floor sessions.

Every committee chairman will set up their own rules on testimony, but for my committee I will try to schedule bill hearings at least a week in advance. People who want to testify will have a sign-up schedule and we will try to accommodate as many people as we can. There may be time limits for both sides of the issue and if there is not enough time for everyone, recorded testimony will be accepted. This is one area we will have to experiment with to make sure patrons have opportunities to testify and we have an orderly and timely hearing.

COVID-19 has made all of our lives miserable and we continue to find ways to work through this and still do the people's work. I feel a great honor to represent this district and please feel free to contact me with concerns and suggestions for our district.

TYMBER: top 300

Then, last summer, Schafer took a weekend long class sponsored by Regeneron.

"He taught me what I can do for my kids so we can do better and be bigger and be greater and provide more opportunities," she said, pointing to the Science Talent Search as one opportunity for her students.

"I was so excited I could barely contain myself... My teacher came to the classroom and said, 'TyMBER, you won!' We both knew what we were talking about!"

TYMBER BOLDT

The application, only for seniors, must focus on an individual science project completed during a freshman, sophomore or junior year and includes writing a 20-page paper on the project.

"That was all her. She really had to expand on her materials," Schafer said about the paper. TyMBER took an independent study class, spending an hour a day with Schafer to work on the paper from August through November.

Then the news came Jan. 7 that TyMBER had been named among the top 300.

"I was so excited. I could barely contain myself," TyMBER said. "My teacher came to the classroom and said, 'TyMBER, you won!' We both knew what we were talking about."

TyMBER will learn Jan. 21 if she is among the 40 finalists, but she hopes the competition draws the interest of a professional to mentor her to take the project further.

"It may be some kind of door that will open in the future," she said. "You don't know unless you try. ... I hope kids see the success I've had in this and maybe realize they probably have more potential than they think."

TyMBER is undecided about her future plans following graduation, but she knows a spark was lit by her science teacher.

"I really want to thank my science teacher. She's been with us for three years as a science teacher and she has a level of passion and commitment to the science program and she's very driven to make that science program bigger and better. For her to have that passion and that drive to inspire kids to find a love for science, that's really the encouragement that I've taken to be successful,"

Legislative CORNER

Senator Don Schaible
dgschaible@nd.gov

Happy New Year's to everyone. I sure hope we have a better year than last year. The 67th legislative session started this week, with many changes to get used to. Less access to the chamber, to committee rooms and to legislators will be the new normal for this year. All new rooms have been assigned to accommodate social distance during committee hearings, with a mask mandate required when social distance is not possible. Masks will also be required from 1/2 hour before floor session to 1/2 hour after session. Half of the legislators will be assigned to other areas of the building when the chamber is not in session to also provide greater separation.

The rules also recommend that legislators and legislative branch employees complete a daily health self-assessment before going to the Capitol. Individuals entering the building will be required to submit to a temperature screening, and anyone with a reading of 100.4 degrees or greater or who is experiencing virus symptoms may be turned away. Anyone who feels that it is better to participate virtually will be able to do that with the new technology changes that were implemented with CARES Act dollars allocated to the state to deal with COVID-19 issues. Legislators will now be able to participate and vote to any committee hearing and floor session virtually if that is necessary.

The location of committee rooms will be different for the 2021 session. Smaller rooms will not be used, and four new rooms have been developed in the Judicial Wing on the east side of the Capitol. One room will be on the second floor of the J-Wing, and three new rooms will be located on the third floor. The House Appropriations Committee will meet in the spacious Brynild Haugland Room, and Senate Appropriations will use the Roughrider Room, which the House committee will have vacated. All committee hearings will be live streamed via the internet, and recordings of the meetings will be archived on the legislative website.

There are several ways for patrons to leave messages for legislators. The first option is to call the incoming toll-free number 1-888-NDLEGIS (1-888-635-3447). In Bismarck, the number is 328-3373. For hearing-impaired individuals, the TTY toll-free number is 1-800-366-6888 to reach a relay operator. Each of these numbers will reach the legislative telephone center. The telephone attendant will be able to give the latest information concerning bills and resolutions. If the caller wishes to directly contact the caller's legislator, a message will be delivered to the legislator. There is always the option to send us an email with your concerns and suggestions.

The best option to stay current with bills and calendar is to visit the legislative branch website: www.legis.nd.gov. Website users will find bill status information and have an opportunity to leave a general message for legislators or a viewpoint on legislation. A legislative bill tracking system and legislative branch video are available on the website. The bill tracking system will allow users to follow individual bills; the legislative branch video will allow users to watch live video of committee hearings and floor sessions as well as archived and indexed committee meetings and floor sessions.

Every committee chairman will set up their own rules on testimony, but for my committee I will try to schedule bill hearings at least a week in advance. People who want to testify will have a sign-up schedule and we will try to accommodate as many people as we can. There may be time limits for both sides of the issue and if there is not enough time for everyone, recorded testimony will be accepted. This is one area we will have to experiment with to make sure patrons have opportunities to testify and we have an orderly and timely hearing.

COVID-19 has made all of our lives miserable and we continue to find ways to work through this and still do the people's work. I feel a great honor to represent this district and please feel free to contact me with concerns and suggestions for our district.

Then, last summer, Schafer took a weeklong class sponsored by Regeneration.

"He taught me what I can do for my kids so we can do better and be bigger and be greater and provide more opportunities," she said, pointing to the Science Talent Search as one opportunity for her students.

"I was so excited I could barely contain myself... My teacher came to the classroom and said, 'TyMBER, you won!' We both knew what we were talking about!"

TYMBER BOLDT

The application, only for seniors, must focus on an individual science project completed during a freshman, sophomore or junior year and includes writing a 20-page paper on the project.

"That was all her. She really had to expand on her materials," Schafer said about the paper. TyMBER took an independent study class, spending an hour a day with Schafer to work on the paper from August through November.

Then the news came Jan. 7 that TyMBER had been named among the top 300.

"I was so excited. I could barely contain myself," TyMBER said. "My teacher came to the classroom and said, 'TyMBER, you won!' We both knew what we were talking about."

TyMBER will learn Jan. 21 if she is among the 40 finalists, but she hopes the competition draws the interest of a professional to mentor her to take the project further.

"It may be some kind of door that will open in the future," she said. "You don't know unless you try. ... I hope kids see the success I've had in this and maybe realize they probably have more potential than they think."

TyMBER is undecided about her future plans following graduation, but she knows a spark was lit by her science teacher.

"I really want to thank my science teacher. She's been with us for three years as a science teacher and she has a level of passion and commitment to the science program and she's very driven to make that science program bigger and better. For her to have that passion and that drive to inspire kids to find a love for science, that's really the encouragement that I've taken to be successful,"

Gardening in the Winter

Try growing microgreens indoors this winter.

Gardening catalogs are arriving in the mailbox and the inbox is flooded with emails from seed companies touting the newest vegetable cultivars.

I'm starting to get the itch to get my hands dirty, but my garden is covered in 6 inches of snow.

What can a gardening addict do?
Grow microgreens indoors!

Pioneered by the Chicago chef Charlie Trotter, microgreens are garden centers or from online seed companies. Due to the large number of seeds used, buying seeds in bulk is more economical. Buying seeds labeled for microgreen use ensures that the seeds have not been treated with a fungicide and that they are appropriate for human consumption.

Our handsome father, brother, grandpa, uncle, cousin and friend, was welcomed home in Heaven by our Precious Lord, and his family who journeyed on before him, we know it was a beautiful welcome.

Alex loved our Lord, our mother instilled the Love of God into him at a very young age, and he continued with his Faith through out his Life.

Alex was born on June 18, 1977, in Fort Yates, N.D., to Julius and Marie Azure, he grew up in the Porcupine/Selfridge/Blackfoot areas.

Alex attended schools in Selfridge and Fort Yates, where he graduated high school. He then attended college at the University of Mary in Bismarck, N.D., where he earned his Bachelors degree. He also took classes while he lived in Montana with his sister Ruth.

He worked at the Standing Rock High School, with computers and coached the boys basketball teams, and also at the Solen High School. These were the best years of his life, working with children. He also worked in various other places throughout his life.

With life changes, he moved on and moved around, living in Mont, with his sister Ruth and out in Washington, but he knew Standing Rock was his true home, he came home and lived out his life here.

At a young age Alex was given the nickname Pumpkin by his dad, and we all know seeds come from Pumpkins... so along came his first two seeds, Alex Jr and Sasha, with Jackie, then two more seeds came along, Isaiah and Issac, with Felicia.

He had so much love for his children, his beautiful Princess Sasha and his four handsome boys...his Love for his children was unconditional, and for his family also.

Some things Alex liked to do was play basketball and softball, but most of all he liked to work out, working out took his mind off of a lot of things that were troubling him, this was his way of coping. Alex loved attending pow wows, making friends wherever he went, listening to all types of music and worshipping our Precious Jesus.

He loved his family so much and developed tremendous bonds with his children and with his nephews and nieces, Dorrance, Kayla, Desmond, and Courtney, who he helped care for while living with his sister in Montana. Alex had many stories to share about the times spent with them.

The highlight of Alex's life was becoming a grandpa, Julius and Julia-Marie brought a new type of enjoyment into his life.

Alex left us to soon, he will be greatly missed by all. Alex had a infectiousness smile. His Laugh and ear to ear smile will never be forgotten. Alex is survived by his precious grandchildren, Julius and Julia Marie Azure, his very own Princess Sasha and son Alex all from Cannonball, N.D. Sons Isaiah and Issac Azure from Washington, and Quintin from North Dakota, his sister Ruth, from Montana, brothers, Beau James and Landin Carry Moccasin from Bismarck, N.D.; Brandin Abrahamson, his nephews and nieces from Montana, Dorrance, Kayla, and Courtney, Rayce Hamilton, Clarks and Hamilton's from Mont.

Alex is also survived by his uncle James Carry Moccasin from Selfridge, N.D. Alex leaves behind friends who were like brothers to him, some adopted. Alex had someone special in his life when he left us, his fiancé, Kerry Jo Yellow Hammer.

Alex was preceded in death by his parents, Marie and Julius, his grandparents, Andy and Emma Lebeau, his special nephew Desmond James, brothers Myron, Fred, and Troy, and other relatives.

Alex, our hearts are broken, you left us too soon. We know that you're in Heaven with our Lord, with our family, like Desmonds says, "You were our Shining Star here on Earth, now your Our Shining Star up in Heaven."

CasketBearers: Jeremy Lester, Beau Azure, Dorrance Clark, Kayla Clark, Daniel Carry Moccasin, Savoy Foginthermoring, Alex Azure JR, Landin Carry Moccasin, Issac Azure, Isaiah Azure, Frank DuMont and Dewey Plenty Chief

Honorary Families: the Lester family from N.D., Frank and Gabe Dumont from Mont., Lebeau family from S.D., Brien Families from Wash., Vettors and RedTomahawks from N.D. and CarryMoccasin from N.D. If we forgot anyone, we are sorry it was not our intention.

WRT's voice and broadband service is a Lifeline-supported service. Only eligible consumers may enroll in the Lifeline program. Lifeline applicants must present documentation demonstrating eligibility either through participation in one of the qualifying federal assistance programs or through income-based means. Lifeline recipients are required to recertify their eligibility every year. The Lifeline program is limited to one benefit per household, consisting of either wireline, wireless or broadband service. A household is defined, for purposes of the Lifeline program, as an individual or group of individuals who live together at the same address and share income and expenses. Lifeline is a government benefit program, and consumers who willfully make false statements in order to obtain the benefit can be punished by fine or imprisonment or can be barred from the program. WRT is required to access the FCC's National Lifeline Accountability Database to verify if a customer is currently receiving Lifeline, as well as provide information to the database regarding new Lifeline subscribers.

How do I apply to receive Lifeline, Link Up, and Toll Blocking discounts?

To apply for this low-income assistance, please contact WRT at 748-2211 or 845-3100 or go to the website checklifeline.org/lifeline and apply online.

Sincerely,

Jeff Hayden

SERVICE & BILLING

Establishing Or Transferring Phone Service

To establish or to transfer new residential or business phone service, call or visit a WRT office. To enable us to process your order to establish phone service, we will need to know your complete address, and how you want to be listed in the directory. We also need to know about previous telephone service in your name, and other credit information. We will ask for identification, and a number where you can be reached either at work or through a friend or relative until your service is established.

Installation Rates

Installation rates will vary with the needs of your service. There are many steps involved in installing your phone service, but not every customer needs each step. The amount of work needed to install phone service for you will depend on the type of facilities and service you want.

Deposit Policy

Customers may be asked to pay a deposit to establish telephone &/or internet service. The amount of your deposit is determined when you apply for service.

You Will Be Billed For Changes In Your Service

Certain changes, except termination of service, and disconnection of certain options, require a service charge. The amount you are charged depends on the type of change requested. Consult your service representative for different services.

Your Telephone Bill

How/When You Are Billed

Charges for local service and equipment are billed one month in advance. WRT billing statements are usually mailed within the first five working days of each month.

When to Pay your Bill

Payments are due the 20th of the month. Your payment is considered past due if not paid by that date. If your payments are not received by the due dates, or you do not meet your mutually agreed upon payment arrangements, your service may be disconnected.

Where To Pay Your Bill

In addition to mailing in your payment, you can pay by cash, check, or credit or debit card in WRT's offices in Hazen, Beulah, or Mobridge. Payments can also be dropped off in payment slots at all three offices after hours. Drop off locations are also located at Krause's Market in Hazen, and Bronson's Marketplace in Beulah.

Other Bill Paying Options

You may also pay online, by Automatic Bank Deduct... or Pay by Phone. Customers can access online bill pay via the WRT website or using the SmartHub app. Call WRT for more information.

Error On Your Bill

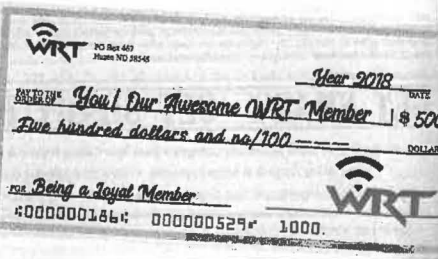

If you have a question on your bill, contact WRT and ask for a Customer Service Representative. If the error cannot be resolved, please pay the undisputed charges on time so you'll maintain a good payment record while the problem is being investigated.

LIFELINE & LINK UP ASSISTANCE

WRT knows how vital access to reliable communications is to everyday life. We believe it is important to help connect those who can't afford service. WRT participates in Federal Communications Commission's Lifeline, Toll Limitation, Tribal Lifeline and Tribal Link Up assistance programs.

LIFELINE: WRT offers the Lifeline telephone assistance program for qualifying low-income subscribers who are not already receiving a Lifeline discount from another provider. Lifeline provides a monthly service discount on eligible telephone or eligible broadband service.

TOLL LIMITATION: Lifeline/Tribal Lifeline subscribers may also block long distance calls on their telephone line at no charge. This limits the possibility of unwanted fees on your bill.

ELIGIBILITY: To be eligible for Lifeline assistance, an applicant or subscriber, one of their dependents or their household must participate in one or more of the following programs: Medicaid; Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP, formerly Food Stamps); Supplemental Security Income (SSI); Federal Public Housing Assistance; or Veterans & Survivors Pension Benefit. Individuals whose household income is at or below 135% of the Federal Poverty Guidelines are also eligible for Lifeline assistance. Toll blocking at no charge and reduced deposits are also available.

TRIBAL LIFELINE & TRIBAL LINK UP: Additional Tribal Lifeline and Tribal Link Up support is available to those qualifying individuals living on Tribal Lands. Tribal Lifeline/Link Up provides for additional telephone services discounts, and in addition to the previously cited programs, for those individuals residing on Tribal Lands, participation in the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) general assistance program, Head Start, Food Distribution Program on Indian Reservations or Tribal TANF qualifies them for this support. Only eligible consumers may enroll in the Lifeline program.

VERIFICATION: Lifeline applicants must present documentation demonstrating eligibility either through participation in one of the qualifying federal assistance programs or through income-based means. Lifeline recipients are required to recertify their eligibility every year. The Lifeline program is limited to one benefit per household, consisting of either wireline or wireless service. Lifeline is a government benefit program, and consumers who willfully make false statements in order to obtain the benefit can be punished by fine or imprisonment or can be barred from the program.
